THE TRIBUNE.

Literary Notices.

We have received the first number of the uniform edition of the writings of CORNELIUS MATHEWS; to be completed in eight, and sold at a shilling each. It is no easy matter now, when every English author has far more American than British readers and when all our people seem looking anxiously over the water as if only thence could come any book worth their reading, for a young American writer even to procure an audience-still less to secure a reputation and hold it in spite of the Rood that assails it from abroad. We regard it on this account as a decisive and highly honorable evidence that the writings of Mr. Mathews are receiving something of the admiration which is their due, that this new edition should be called for at this time. There is no American their Christian foes is due much of that apparent writer who has more perseveringly exerted himself in behalf of the literature of his country than he; to torture and murder their victims. and all that he has written bears witness to the sincere and zealous interest which he feels in its welfare. The papers he has published at various times upon 'the subject of International Copyright are by far the best that have ever been written upon it among us. They are stamped by an earnest, glowing conviction of the truth and right of the cause he advocates; and the powerful considerations by which he has enforced the claims of American authors have done much to awaken the public mind to the importance of the matter. All his writings are marked by the same regard for the best interests of American Literature, and spring from the same desire to do something that | for bravery; and quoted, as an illustration of the may aid its progress and give worth and a national stamp to its character .- 'The Motley Book' which is first presented in this collection has been before the public for several years. It is made up of sketches of character, pathetic or humorous incidents, &c. In strength and boldness of delineation they rank among the best productions of their

DRAMATIC WORKS AND POEMS OF SHAK-SPEARE.-The Harpers, encouraged by the success which has attended the publication of Alison's 'History,' and Brande's 'Encyclopædia,' have been led to undertake the issue, in a similar mode, of the works of the great Euglish Dramatist; and we are quite certain that they will have no reason to regret the enterprize. They propose to issue it (and have already published the first number) in eight numbers, at twenty-five cents each, with nineteen illustrations on steel, including a portrait. Each number will comprise 144 pages; and the whole work will make about 1,150 pages, to be sold at two dellars. It may be well to mention that the Harpers' edition is the only perfect issue of Shakspeare's works published in this country. For sale at this office.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN, a new and large weekly journal, will make its first appearance in our City on the 29th inst. It will be edited by A. D. PATERSON, Esq. for some years connected with "The Albion," and a gentleman of eminent Literary culture and experience. We do not know how room is to be made for another in the Newspaper family, and especially among the Weeklies, which are already 'thick as three in a bed;' but we know that Mr. PATERSON will issue none other than an instructive and interesting paper, which no centleman need fear to welcome to his family -The printer and publisher, Mr. E.L. THE LAW REPORTER for April has been sent us by Bradbury & Soden. It opens with an essay on 'Legal Morality,' in answer to some sharp strictures in the New-York Observer. Its Digest of Recent Decisions is quite full, and it has a concluding List of the Applicants in Bankruptcy in Massachusetts and New-York.

ROBERT MERRY'S MUSEUM for April is just published by Bradbury, Soden & Co. 127 Nassau-st. It is filled with pleasant, instructive reading, and its engravings are admirable.

THE MACKENZIE CASE AT WASHIERTON -We have good reason to know that the Secretary of the Navy has hitherto avoided all discussion of the Mackenzie case; that he has refrained from reading the reports of the evidence in the newspapers, and all newspaper comments and discussions thereon; being determined to keep his mind free and unprejudiced, until he should receive, and have time carefully to examine, the official record of the Court Martial. The examination of that record, and the formation of an opinion thereon, it was supposed, would occupy at least ten days. There have been no Cabinet discussions on the subject of these proceedings. While we can say that this statement can be entirely relied upon, we cannot forbear to add the remark, that in our judgement the course thus pursued by the Secretary of the Navy is worthy of the character he has always sustained-that of an impartial and upright Judge.

The partial efforts which have recently been made to enlighten the Indian tribes have been attended, according to his representations, with a good degree of success; and he illustrated and established this opinion by several very interesting sketches of personal character among the Indians.

He spoke especially of Cusic, the famous Tuscarora chief, who served with Lafayette in the Revolution, and instanced the Cherokee, Choctaw,

Chickasaw and other tribes, as those in which education had made most evident progress. He alluded to Red Jacket, Logan and others, as

THE "SKETCH OF LADY BULWER," which we recently republished, at length, from a credible writer, a personal friend, in Sargent's Magazine, has called forth the following per contra remarks from Mr. Willis, who also has some personal know-beautiful, and beauty and chastity will cover mor sins than charity, though the chastity may be as much a merit as the beauty-and no more. We are not prepared, nor do we wish, to enter into any defence of Sir Edward Bulwer, but that he ever " felt'd to the ground" a woman of twice his size and strength, we have our little doubt. We know too, for a fact, that Bulwer, while living himself in London, bought an exquisite cottage at Acton, a few miles from town, and furnished it with unequalled taste and luxury, to give Lady

Bulwer to live alone with her children, and that her Ladyship preferred London and Paris, and the obtrusive gaze and sympathy of the world to this elegant privacy. For a broken-hearted woman she is a very gay one, and not content with confiding her grievances to all the fashionable circler of London and Paris, she has set them forth in a novel for the commisseration of such portions of Europe and the Americas as could not conven-

The above work contains a full, clear, graphic and authentic account of the Far West, and, we predict, will seet the wants of the American public more generally and truly than any that has appeared for many years with regard to the Oregon and the Far West. In the first place, it relates to wanderings in our own vast Western Wilderness, performed in the years 1839 and 1840, by a man not only capa ble of observing and writing the truth, but who, withal could look on hardship and danger as things to be met and never fled from. The track which Mr. F. took over the Rocky Mountains was never traveled before by any white observer. He followed the trail of the Santa Fe traders until he struck the Arkansas, which he ascended to the place where it escapes from the Mountains; at that point he entered the gorges, climbed the frozen hights, and traversed the deserts of the Rocky Mountains, as far North as latitude 42 degrees. On this part of his journey he explored the sources of the South fork of the Great Platte, the South ern branches of the Colorado of the West, and the sublime and barren districts of country lying about them. From latitude 42 he turned towards the Pacific Ocean through Oregon Territory, of which he tells you so much and so well, that you rise from the reading acquainted with its soil, its trees, its whole commercial and agricultural capa-bilitles-explored and related, you are forced to believe, by an honest and capable observer. Indeed, Oregon and the whole country along Mr. F.'s track stand out with remarkable distinctness and interest; and his descriptions of the Indians-their manners and customs, and the events of his daily travels, are narrated with a vigor and spirit which will place the work, as to its interest, at least on a level with

True Liver.—The more we contemplate the structure of this organ, its magnitude compared with others, its singular circulation and the vast quantity of blood which passes through it, the more we must be satisfied that it was intended as a leading operation in the functions of life; any considerable interruption or irregularity of that operation must be attended with the most serious and fatal consequences, and even every leaser deviation from its natural ledge of the parties:

The defence of the authoress "Cheveley" is generous, elequent, and graphic, and doubtless, as far as the writer's observation went, perfectly true. But there are two sides to most stories, particularly to scandalous ones, and Mrs. Berkley's account of Sir Edward Bulwer should be taken, we think, with more than one "grain of sait." We have heard a very highly colored counter statement, though never a word against Lady Bulwer's ment, though never a word against Lady Bulwer's Hepatic Elxir.

Considerable interruption or irregularity of that operation must be attended with the most serious and fatal consequences; and even every lesser deviation from its natural state must be felt more or less in production of general derangement and disorder of the system of which it forms so principal a part. After deep reflection on the subject, and the trial of nusserous experiments to counteract the diseases of the liver in all their peculiarities, the proprietor of Starkwather's Hepatic Elxir has succeeded in forming a preparation which experience proves to be admirably adapted to their cure, and its success has been truly astonishing—Hundreds have been cured by its timely application, and otter are now experiencing such relief from suffering as they had never anticipated—solely by the use of Dr. Starkweather's Hepatic Elxir.

This may cartify that for twenty-five years I was achieted with pain in my side, which was frequently so severe as to entirely incapacitate me for labor. I have been under the care and treatment of various physicians, without any percare aud treatment of various physicians, without any permanent benefit. Hearing of the many cures effected by the Hepatic Elixir prepared by Dr. Starkweather, I was induced to give it a trial, and am happy to say that it has entirely removed my complaint. I have felt no symptoms of it for more than a year past.

R OMAN EVE BALSAM.—FOR WEAK AND INFLAMED EVES.—This Balsam is a prescription of one of the most celebrated Oculists—has been a long time in use, and is confidently recommended to the public as the best and most successful salve ever used for inflammatory diseases of the eye. In cases where the eyelids are very much inflamed, or the ball of the eye thickly covered with blood, it acts almost like magic, and removes all appearance of disease after two or three applications.

IN DIMNESS OF SIGHT.

oy at who and their eyested saints, whose any appears as any appears and This Balsam has restored sight in many instances where almost TOTAL BLINDNESS, caused by excessive inflammation, had existed for years. Inflammation and soreness caused by blows, contusions, or wounds on the eye, or by extraneous bodies of an irritating nature introduced under the eyelids, is very soon removed by the application of the Balsam.

The following certificate from the Pastor of the Episcopal Church at Harlem, will convince the most incredulous of its astonishing efficacy:

Messrs, Sands & Co: Gents—From motives of humanity 1 am prompted to inform you that a few applications of your valuable Roman Eye Balsam have made a perfect cure in the case of my aged mother, who has suffered under a most painful inflammation of the eyes for twelve or fifteen years. Physicians to a strong fight, and in the weakness or partial loss of sight from sickness or old age, it is a sure restorer, and should be used by all who find their eyesight failing without any apparent dis-inflammation of the eyes for twelve or fifteen years. Physicians have given up the case as hopeless, on account of the patient's age; but by the blessing of heaven your remedy has effected a perfect cure, and verified the adage—'While there is life there is hope.' Yours, most gratefully, R. HOYT.
